Summer 2024 Newsletter

Welcome

Welcome to the Summer 2024 edition of my newsletter. Although at the time of writing this I am not sure it is really summer as having a huge storm with massive hail stones!

Windows 11 2024 Update (version 24H2)

The next major update to Windows 11 is due to be released in the coming months.

This update will be free for all Windows 11 users and will automatically download and install – it is being released in waves so not everyone will receive it immediately, but you will eventually get it in the days/weeks/months after release.

N.B. For the first few weeks it will appear as an 'optional' update which you can choose to install via Windows Settings, after a period of testing it will then start to install automatically on all devices.

If you are offered this new version in the first few weeks of release then my advice would be to postpone it for a while to allow for any initial problems to be resolved before you go ahead and upgrade, as with previous releases there were quite a few initial teething issues which caused some major problems to customers who had chosen to upgrade immediately. I will update my website and the news page when I am happy it is safe for you to install.

Once it has finished downloading in the background you will be prompted to restart your computer to complete the upgrade (or it will do it automatically the next time you shutdown/restart)

For full details on what new feature and changes are coming with this update see the section below on my website.

AVG product changes – much more for the same price!!

From this point forward the AVG Internet Security products I supply will be changing as follows:

Before	After	Cost
AVG 1 year 1 computer	NO CHANGE	£25
AVG 1 year 3 computers	AVG 1 year 10 devices	£45

The new AVG 1 year 10 device package will allow you to install it on up to 10 different devices and these devices can now include Windows computers, Apple Mac computers, Android phones / tablets and Apple iPhones / iPads.

N.B. The cost will remain the same as it was for the previous 3 computer package!
